

'CULTURE CLASH...'

This article appeared in the _____. The people who read this paper are most likely to be _____ and so the article might appeal to them because _____. The purpose of the article is to _____ and it does this mainly by _____.

The article has a bold headline full of techniques. The effect of the alliteration in 'QUOTE' is to _____. The sub-editor also makes full use of emotive verbs such as 'QUOTE' and 'QUOTE'. These help us to _____. The headline is an opinion which is unusual because _____. It sums up the message of the article which is _____.

The writer uses lots of description to set the atmosphere. For example, 'QUOTE'. This helps us to imagine _____. Another example is 'QUOTE' which _____. Another technique that is used is to paint an image of the event is _____. For example, 'QUOTE'. Here, the writer _____.

Throughout the article there are several facts. Examples include: 'QUOTE', 'QUOTE' and 'QUOTE'. The facts are used to _____. However, the text is mainly the opinion of the journalist. He believes that _____ and shows this when he writes _____.

To get his point across the author has used humour in a mocking way. For example, he writes 'QUOTE'. Also he describes how 'QUOTE'. Humour is used like this because _____. It is interesting to note that _____.

The overall tone of the article seems to be _____. For example, 'QUOTE' and 'QUOTE'. It is written in a way that _____ because _____.

The order of the text is significant because _____. He starts with _____ and finishes with _____. The final two lines, especially 'QUOTE', is particularly significant because _____. He has used the technique of _____ to put this across.

This is a persuasive piece of writing in many ways; the journalist uses a range of persuasive techniques successfully. For example he uses _____ such as 'QUOTE' to suggest that _____. Also he includes _____ such as 'QUOTE' which helps us to _____.

It is not just the persuasive techniques that make this writing effective but also the figurative techniques and use of language. One example is 'QUOTE' which _____. In addition, the journalist uses _____ such as 'QUOTE'. This makes me think _____. I also like the use of language when he writes 'QUOTE'. I like the way he _____.

The media text makes use of a large photograph. The picture shows _____. The purpose of the picture is to _____. It is interesting that the image _____.

In conclusion, the overall effect is _____. It is quite similar to the article headlined 'QUOTE' as it _____. The articles have helped me to think more about cycling. We are football mad in this country and unlike other countries in Europe such as _____, we don't seem to be fanatical about cycling. I think this is true because _____. This article has made me wonder about _____.